FIRE DEPARTMENT BATTALION CHIEF IN-BASKET EXERCISE #1 – ANSWER KEY

The In-Basket exercise is used to determine your ability to prioritize and accomplish multiple tasks simultaneously. You are expected to create a clear plan of how to manage the workload that has been presented to you. You are expected to use the fire department memo format, forms, and email system when available.

It is Monday, a little before 0600. It is the first day of the month.

You command a battalion that has 5 stations. The stations are numbered 1 through 5. Each station has an engine company and there is also a truck company at Station 1. For the purpose clarification, your department members work 24-hour shifts. There are three different shifts – A, B, C. You are the Battalion Chief assigned to B-shift or BC-1B. They work a Kelly schedule – three shifts on with a day off in between shifts followed by four days off in a row. This totals 10 – 24-hour shifts per month. Official shift change is at 0800. It is customary for firefighters to relieve one another at 0730.

You arrived early because the on-duty BC, Chief Charly Moore, has asked for you to relieve her at 0600 because she's going on vacation and has to catch an early flight this morning.

When you arrive though she is out on a roll-over vehicle accident with Engine 4. At 0630 she pulls in to the station. She grabs her stuff, throws you the keys to the BC rig and tells you there's a note on the desk for you. That's all that she says as she runs for her personal vehicle and drives away on vacation.

Attached are various documents: emails, letters, memos, and her note.

You have one hour to review and prioritize the communications and decide on a course of action, if any.

Hi Chief Candidate,

Thanks a lot for coming in early for me. I really need this vacation!

Only a couple of items for you to be aware of:

- Our vehicle is low on fuel (The pumps were being worked on yesterday so I couldn't fuel in the morning)
- I think our SCBA in the vehicle might be leaking air. It was low yesterday morning when I checked it.....
- There is some amazing key lime pie in the fridge. Better grab a slice before it's all gone!

Thanks again. Have a great shift.....

Charly

PRIORITY - HIGH

This is a high priority because it impacts operational readiness and safety.

Since I am housed with Engine 1 and Truck 1 I would direct one of the company officers to have the SCBA in my BC vehicle checked because it might be leaking air. I would have them repair or replace the unit as quickly as possible.

I would also direct them to have my vehicle fueled since it was low yesterday morning and Chief Moore used it all day yesterday.

Lastly,

I would have a discussion with Chief Charly about the condition of the vehicle (low on fuel and leaking SCBA) when she returns from vacation.

Subject: Burned out

Chief, as you are well aware I have been a firefighter here for longer than a lot of people have been on the job, all of my time has been at Sta. 1. I think I've had enough though. I really think I need to have a break and go to a slower station. What do I need to do to make this happen ASAP? The increased call volume has me at my breaking point.

PRIORITY - HIGH

This is a high priority because it involves the well-being of our personnel and can potentially impact operational readiness.

I would direct the firefighter's officer to meet with the employee and determine what the extent of the issue is and find out if the employee needs immediate action to reduce his stress so that he isn't at his "breaking point". The immediate actions, depending on the information from the meeting, could include sending the employee home, moving the employee to another station, or moving the employee from the engine to the truck for a break. It may also be that the employee didn't realize that his email may be perceived to be a cry for immediate help and that he doesn't require an immediate action. I would direct the officer to tell the employee about resources available to him including EAP, the critical incident stress management team members, professional assistance through his health plan, and the Union.

FIRE DEPARTMENT BATTALION CHIEF IN-BASKET EXERCISE #1 – ANSWER KEY

I would also direct the firefighter's captain to remind the firefighter about the chain of command and that his first contact should be the captain directly. If the firefighter was under high stress and required immediate actions I would also advise the Deputy Chief of the situation.

From: Chief Kean, BC-1 'C' Shift

Subject: Poor Performance

As you know I have been a BC on 'C' shift for a while now. I like to run a tight ship and am glad we are finally getting some quality leadership on 'B' shift.

I was filling in the last 'B' shift set and had a fire in Station 4's area. Engine 2 was on the alarm. I gave them an assignment to ladder a balcony and stretch a line to the 2nd floor. There's no other way to say it: It was a total mess. It didn't look like the FF had ever seen an extension ladder before (Maybe he is one of the newer guys?) and the captain just stood by and watched him fumble around and occasionally yelled at him. Needless to say their behavior slowed my operations. This would never happen on 'C' shift.

Sorry to drop this in your lap but this isn't the first time this sort of thing has happened.

PRIORITY - HIGH

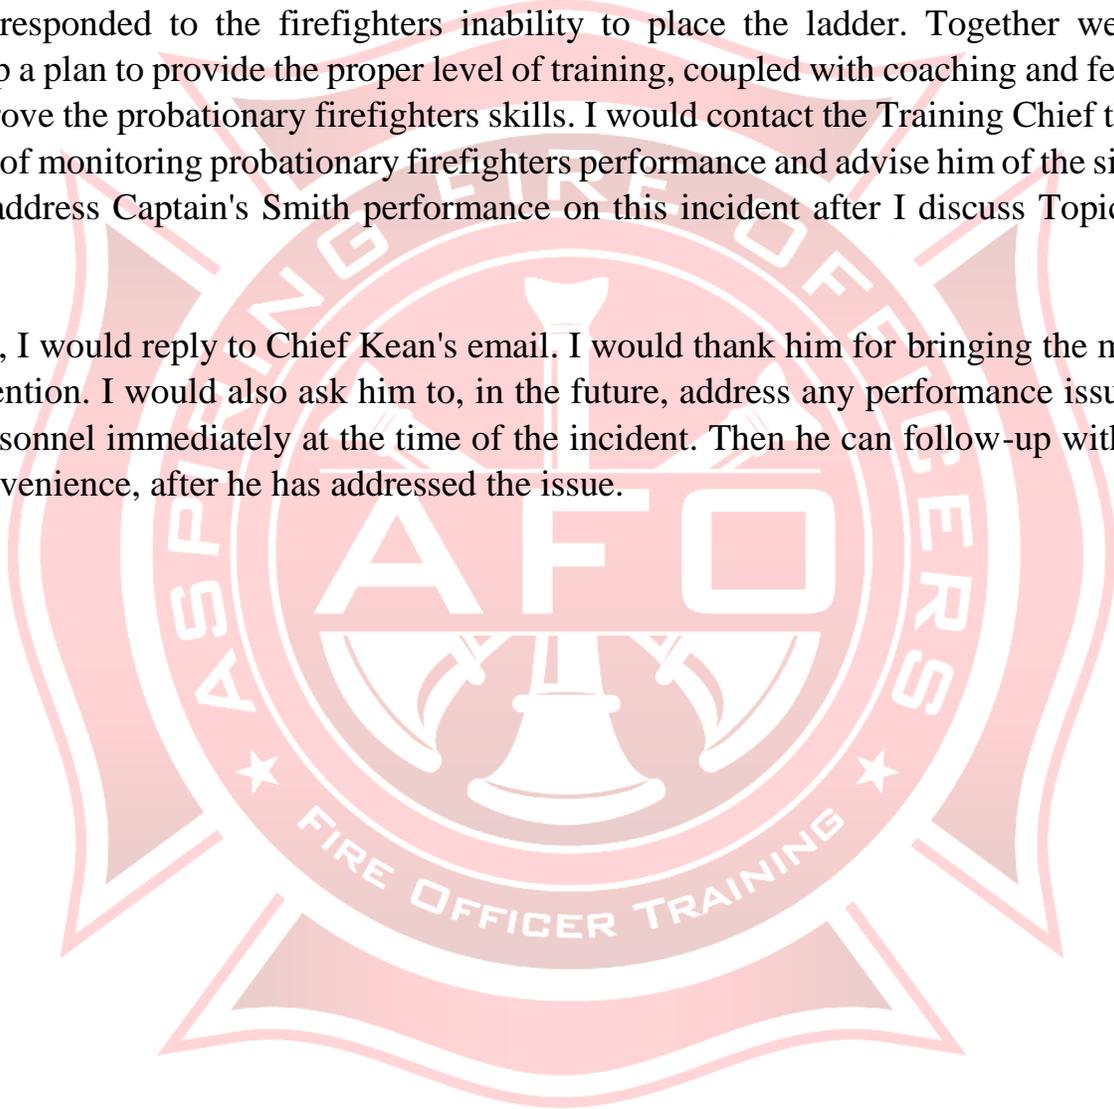

This is a high priority because it is an operational and safety issue. In addition, this item is linked to Topic #7 and Topic #9. The three together suggest a lack of supervision and leadership at Engine 2 and requires further investigation. I will address all three items, in order, together since they are related.

To manage this item I would gather my facts prior to any meeting. I am concerned that the firefighter on Eng. 2 has not been sufficiently trained to I would research the incident and confirm who was working on Eng. 2 that shift. Once I had that information, and confirmed it was the regular officer and firefighter, I would schedule a meeting with Captain Long. The meeting would be one-on-one. I would use the 8-Step process to conduct the meeting.

FIRE DEPARTMENT BATTALION CHIEF IN-BASKET EXERCISE #1 – ANSWER KEY

I would first discuss my concerns about the performance on the fire and ask Captain Smith to outline what occurred. I would be an active listener and make sure that I understand Captain's Smith side of the story. I would seek to understand the probationary firefighters current level of training and performance. I would also gather facts about how Captain Smith responded to the firefighters inability to place the ladder. Together we would develop a plan to provide the proper level of training, coupled with coaching and feedback, to improve the probationary firefighters skills. I would contact the Training Chief that is in charge of monitoring probationary firefighters performance and advise him of the situation. I will address Captain's Smith performance on this incident after I discuss Topics #7 & 9.....

Finally, I would reply to Chief Kean's email. I would thank him for bringing the matter to my attention. I would also ask him to, in the future, address any performance issues with my personnel immediately at the time of the incident. Then he can follow-up with me, at his convenience, after he has addressed the issue.

Dear Battalion Fire Chief Candidate,

My name is Sarah Garrett. I am the owner of Half Moon Sushi on Main Street. Recently I had the displeasure of meeting one of your firemen. I am a nice person, just trying to make a living running a small business. There is no reason for me to have to be treated like I was, a few days ago.

Last Wednesday, I was at work, like I always am, when the men from the fire station on Johnson Ave. came into my business. The person in-charge, Captain Long, preceded to conduct an inspection of my business. Apparently he found a few things that he didn't like and gave me a list of "violations" that I need to correct. When I started to ask questions about these "violations" he became very upset. He refused to discuss them with me, only telling me I needed to comply. Finally, in a very loud voice, in front of my customers, he promised to "shut me down" if I didn't "get my act together", threw some paperwork on the counter and walked out.

I have always been a good supporter of the Fire Department and the heroic work that you do but this encounter left me very upset and afraid for my business. If I have an emergency will this awful man be the one that comes to help me?

Can you please help me? I want to do whatever the law requires but I still don't understand what I'm supposed to do to fix these violations.

Sincerely,

Sarah Garrett 888-600-5005

Chief Langer tasked me with completing a couple of things for a project he's working on for the Fire Chief. Probationary FF, Dan Mills, is assigned to your shift at Station 2. I need copies of his driver's license, CPR card and EMT license. I sent a note to his captain a couple of weeks back but haven't got a reply so I'm hoping you can help me.

Thx!

Hi Chief. This is Lt. Morrison at PD. Our guys are serving a warrant over on Douglas Road and 11th this morning around 9. According to our intel the place is locked up tight. I was wondering if we could borrow some of your forcible entry tools to speed up the entry? We only have enough stuff to attack one locked door at a time and, if we can get some of your tools, we can go at several at once. Call me back.....Oh, we already have one of your pry bars. You guys left it at that rollover accident this morning.....

Hi Boss,

I'm glad to have you as our new BC. Finally, a BC with some common sense and work ethic, I'm certain things are going to be different now! Just a reminder that we are getting together at Station 3 today at 1330 to go over the final plans for this month's multi-company drill. We only have two weeks to get it finished and there's still a lot to do. I'm interested in your ideas about managing mass casualties. See you after lunch.

Last set we had a couple of problems with dispatch. We were at the east end of our district doing hose lays and got dispatched to a medical aid, even though I told them we would be delayed when we got out there. We had to hurry up and get the hose back on the engine, delaying our response.

Then, later in the day, we got dispatched to an odor of smoke that wasn't even in the City. Something needs to be done about those dispatchers. It's like they don't know what we do out here.
